ABOUT PROPERTY TAXES

Tax Determination

Typically your property is taxed by a county, city, and school district. Under the present property tax system the determination of property values is the responsibility of an appraisal district. To learn which jurisdictions tax your property, contact the appraisal district of the county in which you reside.

Your property is assigned a single appraised value, which is sent to all applicable taxing jurisdictions. The jurisdiction then applies the tax rate set by its governing body to the appraised value. The tax rate multiplied by the appraised value equals the amount of taxes owed.

Exemptions

Several forms of tax relief are available in Texas. Among these various exemptions which may reduce the taxable value of your property. Applying for exemptions is your responsibility. Some exemptions require a new application each year. Contact your appraisal district to learn more about each of the following exemptions:

- Homestead Exemption
- Over 65 Exemption
- Disabled Individual Exemption
- Agricultural Exemption
- Open Space Exemption

Appeals

You may appeal the value assigned to your property and the exemption allowed by the appraisal district. An appraisal review board in each district has the power to review and adjust property values and to determine exemption status.

Contact your appraisal district or visit www.comptroller.texas.gov for more details about the appeal process should you disagree with any action taken by the appraisal district.

For questions about property values, appraisal methods, exemptions, which jurisdictions tax your property or to appeal an appraised value, you should call your county Appraisal District.
